

Automation solutions

Balancing throughput, quality and labor

SERVICE OVERVIEW

Meeting rising demand requires scaling production and for packaging to keep up with increased production. Adequately protecting products and delivering consistent customer experiences can be more difficult as throughput increases. And, as many industries are facing the pressures of rising wages and labor shortages, increasing packaging capacity can prove difficult when considering labor readiness.

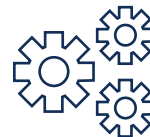

Meeting market demand

- Increase packaging throughput
- Optimize physical footprint
- Reduce reliance on manual processes
- Repurpose existing resources

Performance and consistency

- Provide positive customer experiences
- Reduce risk of damage
- Reduce costs from damaged product
- Limit environmental impact of damaged shipments

Capacity and competency

- Meet customer demand
- Reduce labor costs
- Limit risk of labor shortages
- Reduce reliance on recruiting, training and retaining packaging workforce
